

Join us by becoming an event sponsor and reach over 200 researchers, ethnographers, designers, and product thinkers from the Pacific Northwest.

The summit is a one day symposium with speakers from large technology organizations, start-ups and academia. It is an excellent opportunity for companies to connect with leaders in user experience research, engage with potential new talent and share your work in the fast changing space of user experience research, design and strategy.

The purpose of the event:

- Share research approaches, techniques and ideas around customer-centric product and service design.
- Help facilitate the growth of a strong research community across the Pacific Northwest.
- Provide linkages between Academia and Business in areas like emerging technology, user research and human impact studies.
- Connect and demonstrate how research supports business innovation and growth.

Potential benefits:

- Brand awareness.
- Marketing of the services, products and/or programs.
- Connect with commercial and academic researchers from throughout the Cascadia corridor.
- Attract potential new talent.
- Networking opportunities with industry thought leaders, businesses and academia.
